Last month, the Intelligence Transparency Council convened for its semi-monthly meeting, comprising representatives from across the Intelligence Community.

One topic of discussion was the upcoming rollout of intelligence.gov. The revised website will contain large amounts of information, currently unsearchable or difficult to navigate, made more user friendly with data tags and more accessible formats.

Other ITC topics included updates to the Transparency Implementation Plan and ongoing socialization of efforts among IC elements.